Will Nvidia's starcloud use space as a heat sink?

Nvidia claims Starcloud will use the vacuum of deep space as "an infinite heat sink." Crusoe has a long history of co-locating its compute infrastructure near novel energy sources. Thus, GPUs in space are just a logical step for the company, albeit quite a large one.

When will Nvidia H100S be launched into space?

However, at this stage, it is rather premature to talk of plans more astronomical than those already sketched out from now until early 2027. Starcloud will be the first to launch Nvidia H100s into space in November 2025. Crusoe will deploy its Crusoe Cloud service on a Starcloud satellite scheduled to launch in late 2026.

Why have AI data centers in space? Crusoe and Starcloud share an energy-first vision of an AI data center infrastructure that leverages solar power in space.
